This presentation will address how critical historical analysis and qualitative methods offer us a compass to chart intangible variables, e.g. the instilment of time perceptions in political communication strategies. These approaches can enhance our understanding of myths and perceptions as a compelling power with which to build our own future(s) in conversation.

Dr. Sio-Lopez is Marie Sklodowska-Curie Senior Global Fellow and PI at the Ca' Foscari University of Venice / UDC, and PI of the EU H-2020 "NAVCSHEN" project.
