

SEMINAR SERIES SPRING 2022 VIA ZOOM

Hosted at Harvard University

Seminars will take place on Zoom, Fridays 12–1.30pm EST ***
Please pre-register for each event at tinyurl.com/globalpoliticalthought

Please note the special timings on 25 February and 31 March

- 11 FEBRUARY Shruti Kapila (University of Cambridge), David Armitage (Harvard University), Joshua Simon (Johns Hopkins University)
Roundtable: What is the "Global" in Global Political Thought?
- 25 FEBRUARY
8–9.30AM EST Arunabh Ghosh (Harvard University), Taomo Zhou (Nanyang Technological University, Singapore)
Reform as Global History: Technology, Economic Governance and Infrastructure
- 4 MARCH Jesse McCarthy (Harvard University)
Alterity and Identity: Two Paths for Post-(Neo)Liberal Politics
- 11 MARCH Han Hsien Liew (Arizona State University)
"I Put My Fear for You above My Fear of You": The Role of Emotions in Ibn al-Jawzi's Political Thought
- 31 MARCH
6–7.30PM EST Oguma Eiji (Keio University, Japan)
The indigenization of the concept of race in modern East Asia: What was/is minzu?
- 8 APRIL Durba Mitra (Harvard University)
Third World Women and the Rise of the Status of Women Report
- 15 APRIL Daniel Steinmetz-Jenkins (Wesleyan University)
Internationalism as Decadence: Raymond Aron's Early Critique of Pacifism
- 22 APRIL Adom Getachew (University of Chicago)
Africa for the Africans: A history of a Pan-African slogan
- 6 MAY Victoria Collis-Buthelezi (University of Johannesburg)
Translating Blackness and Questions of (African) Indigeneity

